JUNGLE

A game for 2 players.
Put the card in the middle, on a flat surface.
Choose the first to go: this player puts two fingers (of his right hand) on two empty adjoining squares (by side; i.e. orthogonally, not diagonally).
He scores one point for every fruit in the squares he is in, and loses one point for every snake: then, he calls out his score. The opponent does the same first with his left hand, then with the right one: he scores and declares his score the same way.
Then, the first player puts two fingers (of his left hand) on two empty adjoining squares, scores and calls out the total score. From then on, starting with the second player, each player moves one of his couples of fingers from the 2 adjoining squares it is in to 2 different empty adjoining squares: then, he adds to his score the points he obtained this way, and declares the total score.
The first player to reach 30 points wins.

Example. Ilenia puts 2 right hand fingers on D/G (1 snake, 4 fruits), saying "3 points". Andrea puts 2 left hand fingers on H/K (2 points), and 2 right hand fingers on B/E (2 points, total: 4"). Ilenia puts 2 left hand fingers on I/L (1 point, Total: 4"). Andrea moves the right hand fingers to B/C (2 points, Total score: 6"). Ilenia moves the right hand fingers to D/E (2 points, Total: 6, 4")...
